Some people around this University insist that we are a boy, and others aver with equal fervor that we are a girl. Occasionally we meet a person who proclaims to all the world that he knows exactly who Dick Rollo is. And we laugh.

As a humane movement, however, we have decided to comment on this week's news in the styles of the various people who have been accused of inflicting this column upon you children each week, so that you may decide for yourself. Here you are:

Rowland Lyon comments on the throwing of all themes of evening students into the waste basket.

"Forsooth and egad, my good man, tellst thou me that such art for art's sake is lost forever to mortal eyes? Yet, methinks that some thoughtful prof hath discovered at last the true value of such literary masterpieces."

Robert Whitney Bolwell tells of the recent interclass swimming meet. "It behooves us to bear in mind that these juniors created a big splash at the Y. W. pool, than which I have seen no equal. What I am trying to suggest is that the other class women were all wet. Open the windows!"

Alice Archer Graham remarks on the coming interclass track and field meet.

"I do hope they don't have rain next Saturday, and that they can have a track meet—a swell track meet, my dear. Why don't they have trick horse races and everything at such events? They're swell."

Fred August Moss discusses, as did Sansong F. Wang, "Modern China." "There are various and sundry things to consider, but in the last analysis, and with all other things being equal, it's a complicated affair. Taken by and large, another interesting thing is, just mix together a lot of letters, and lo and behold, there is a Chinese general."

Letty Biltwank considers the problem of Baron Heyking (pronounced hiking) as he expounds the "Russian Riddle," and cynically comments: "Baron Heyking must be the original boy to walk home, judging from his name, if you get the idea. And, darling, did you notice that Dr. Tildema didn't wear his frock coat for this lecture as he did for Dean Fisher's? And for the first time Dr. Hill found a person he could not stop talking when he wanted. No wonder they applauded the Baron."

Lowell Joseph Ragatz, scandal columnist extraordinary, in thinking of the Colonial Rifle team's second national championship, speaks.

"How do you account for the fact, and what connection do you see between the fact that all our rifle teams seem half-shot when compared with our own Colonials? And what do you understand by the statement that the rifle team is a marriage prep school? Now in the West Indies?"

Herb Angel reads Dean Doyle's speech on the freedom of the press: "Any bozo that don't see that the Dean is K. O. in making this squawk ought to be shot, and that ain't all, or what have you. Now in Virginia, these precepts have long been recognized as being the foundation of the state, and even of the nation."

Cal Coolidge, in a special interview, presents his forecast of the coming class elections.

Now that that's over, and you have made your pick of writers, listen to two of the week's choice stories: A few weeks ago, "Caponsacchi" played at a local theater. A very proper lady attended the production, and knowing that the play was based on Browning's "Ring and the Book," remarked on leaving the show:

"Well, if that's a sample of Browning, I don't wonder that Peaches left him."

Bob Lane, newly elected captain of the rifle team, doesn't mind his new honors. He went to Annapolis togged out in winter clothing from skin out, and wore high topped laced boots. On rapid fire, Lane, so they say, had his sights askew, and set all wrong for the high wind that was blowing, but nevertheless, fired a perfect score. The lad has ability, we say.

We suggest that all sights be set wrong next year so we can retain our championships.

STUDENT CONTROL OF PRESS SOUGHT BY DEAN OF MEN

SPEAKS AT CONFERENCE OF DEANS AT BOULDER

Hits Arbitrary Interference as Contrary to American Ideals of Free Speech and Press

"College editors are likely to be our most intelligent students. In the long run they will be just as quick to realize their moral responsibility to their constituencies as the editors of city dailies."

Thus Dean Henry Gratian Doyle summed up his views in a paper entitled "Censorship of College Publications," which he read last Thursday in Boulder, Colorado, at the tenth annual meeting of the Association of Deans and Advisers of Men, held at the University of Colorado.

Dean Doyle, who is not only Dean of Men here at the University, but who holds the posts of national vice president of Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary collegiate journalism fraternity, and chairman of the publications council of the University, strongly opposed censorship of the college press by the faculty. Such censorship, according to Dean Doyle, is not only contrary to the American ideals of free speech and a free press, but is bad psychology and bad educational policy.

Complete editorial control of their publications should be given student editors as a substitute for arbitrary faculty censorship, in the opinion of the speaker. The editors, however, should be held strictly accountable, both as members of the college community and as citizens for the discharge of this trust. Under such conditions, where the editors are given authority combined with acknowledged responsibility, they will use that authority wisely and will learn to exercise greater tact, good taste, and discrimination than will ever be the case under a repressive system, Dean Doyle declared.

That this system is practical is proved by the editorial and financial success of the New York Times, with its policy of "All the news that's fit to print." Dean Doyle also cited the case of the Evening Star, which "publicly announced that as a protection to its readers it would not print the harrowing details of the Hickman murder case—a step which gained it general commendation and many new friends."

COMMUNISM IS A DREAM-HEYKING

"RUSSIAN RIDDLE" IS TOPIC

Audience of 150 Turns Out to Hear Address Before International Law Class

"Communism is impracticable. It is a dream, if not a nightmare of Karl Marx." Such was the characterization of Soviet Russia made by Baron Alphonse Heyking, of the University of Geneva, Switzerland, in an address before the class in International Law and the International Relations Club last Thursday morning in Corcoran Hall, 29. "The Russian Riddle" was the subject of the Baron's talk.

Baron Heyking, who is making an extensive lecture tour of the United States under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, was Russian minister of foreign affairs, 1901-05, was Russian Consul General at London for ten years, and is at present lecturer on diplomatic and consular service and international law at the University of Geneva.

Lecture Well Attended

More than 150 people heard the Baron's scathing denunciation of the Bolshevik regime in Russia, among them members of the faculty, members of the class in international law, and other political science classes, and members of the various history classes.

Two main propositions were set forth by the speaker. These he explained by a government for the people and by the people, and the education of the masses is a necessary requirement for any civilized community. In both of these, he stated, Communist Russia has failed.

True democratic government was in effect in Russia as early as the Ninth Century, according to the speaker, when the freemen of the country made a duo-lateral contract with their prince, providing for the government of the Russian tribes. Baron Heyking gave a brief summary of the political development of Russia, pointing out that autocracy was imported into Russia from Asia by the Tartar invasion.

The statement of the Communists that the Union of Soviet Republics is a free union, and that any member state is free to secede if it sees fit to do so, was characterized by the speaker as "a tremendous lie." He cited the example of the Republic of Georgia, which, he said, was forced back into the union by Bolshevik troops.

"Bolshevism shows a deliberate lack of popular education," the Baron stated. He pointed out that in this respect Red Russia is no better than the Czarist regime at its worst.

Baron Heyking closed his talk with the statement that "Russia is being crucified that Western Europe may be saved from Bolshevism."

LANDVOIGT MOURNS PASSING OF THEATER

Journalism Class Speaker Blames Movies for Growing Unpopularity of Legitimate Drama

W. H. Landvoigt, of the dramatic department of the Washington Star, declared before Professor Daniel C. Chace's class in Journalism Friday evening, May 11, that the movie houses, with their gilded trappings and tricks for the unwary, are striking the death-blow to the legitimate theatre.

"The play is no longer the thing," said Mr. Landvoigt. "It is the actor or actress. One hears 'Have you seen Norma Shearer in She Didn't Know Her Own Mind?' or 'Have you seen Bebe Daniels this week?' The box office receipts, rather than the merits of the picture, are the criterion nowadays."

"The drama has established itself as a marvelous art, and it is a great pity to sacrifice it to the talking pictures."

MOSS CONDUCTS AIR TESTS UNDER GOV'T AUSPICES

Experiments At Edgewood Arsenal Result of S-4 Disaster

RELATION OF AIR SUPPLY TO EFFICIENCY SUBJECT

Efficiency Under Varying Conditions Tested Under Auspices of Chemical Warfare Service

At the invitation of Commander Brown, of Edgewood Arsenal, to members of the staff of the Psychology Department of George Washington University to test the mental efficiency under varying conditions of ventilation such as are sometimes encountered in submarine warfare, Dr. F. A. Moss and Mr. Hubbard have made two trips to Edgewood Arsenal to carry on this experiment.

The immediate incident that led to the conducting of such a test was the S-4 disaster. The experiment was conducted to discover when the mental efficiency of the victims of the S-4 was decreased by lack of oxygen to such a degree that they were unable to cooperate in their rescue.

Specially Constructed Room

The experiment was carried on in a chamber at Edgewood Arsenal, airtight and especially built for the purpose, and tubes were provided to let into it varying proportions of carbon dioxide and oxygen.

Commander Brown and four enlisted men from the submarine corps, together with Dr. Moss and Mr. Hubbard, entered the chamber each morning the experiment was conducted at 7:30 and remained there from eight to nine hours. Readings were taken at various periods during this time to determine the relative amount of carbon dioxide and oxygen in the air. Intelligence tests were given at the beginning and every two hours during the experiment, as well as other tests on mental arithmetic and cancellation. All such medical tests as blood pressure, temperature and respiration were recorded from time to time. In every single instance there was a marked fall in temperature. In some instances there was as much as 2½ degrees fall by the close of the day. The blood pressure tended to increase. There was no discomfort and no falling off whatever in mental efficiency until the carbon dioxide had increased to about 4½ or 5 per cent. At this time the subjects began to breathe much faster and had difficulty in securing enough air. By the end of the test some of the individuals were suffering from severe headaches, and one was slightly nauseated.

Conditions Varied

In the first day's test the carbon dioxide was permitted to go up to about 5½ per cent and the oxygen to go down to around 15 per cent. In the second day's test, the oxygen was kept constantly renewed from the tank outside, and the carbon dioxide was permitted to go up to more than 6 per cent. The subjects found much less difficulty in remaining in the room so long as fresh oxygen was coming in, even though the carbon dioxide was considerably higher than average proportions. There was little falling off in mental efficiency even though the carbon dioxide was increased over two hundred times more than in the normal atmosphere.

Commander Brown, who was in charge of the experiment from the government point of view, is a graduate of the George Washington Medical School, is in the Chemical Warfare Service, and has done considerable work in bio-chemistry.

Themes of All Evening Rhetoric Students Are Put Into Wastebaskets

A never-to-be-forgotten sight was recently witnessed by a Hatchet reporter, when he saw an assistant in the English Department strolling along with two wastebaskets filled with the themes of the evening Rhetoric class.

The embryo journalist was loafing (as such creatures usually are) on a bench on the rear campus, when the grim visaged assistant passed with his literary load. Shuddering at the thought of the results of so much patient labor (400 themes, each requiring 2 hours of work, represent three months of work, at 9 hours a day) finding a premature grave in a city trash wagon, the reporter decided to follow them, and perhaps preserve them for their hard-working authors.

The path was devious and winding, but it finally led to Dean Wilbur's office, where the themes were distributed to be graded. The reporter returned to his loafing much relieved.

RECOGNIZE TURKS THEME OF FISHER

Dean of Robert College Lectures Before Dr. Hill's International Law Class

"CHANGING TURKEY" TOPIC Chinese Minister to U. S. in Audience; Panaretoff Introduces Speaker; 150 Attend

Immediate recognition of the Turkish Nationalist Government by the United States, and the entrance of this country into the frank relations with Turkey was advocated by Dean Fisher, of Robert College, Constantinople, in an address before a joint meeting of the class in International Law and the International Relations Club last Tuesday morning in Corcoran Hall.

"Changing Turkey" was the subject of Dean Fisher's lecture.

Three Allied Mistakes Cited

Three great mistakes were made by the Allied Powers in dealing with Turkey after the Armistice, the speaker stated. According to Dean Fisher these mistakes were the occupation of Smyrna by allied forces; the snubbing of Turkish delegates at the Peace Conference, and the deportation of certain Turkish Nationalist leaders.

Dean Fisher briefly sketched the historical background of the recent developments in Turkey, entering into a fuller discussion of the rise of the new Nationalist movement after the downfall of the old Ottoman Empire, and the changes which have been brought about by the Mustapha Kemal Pasha Government at Ankara.

"Turkey has made remarkable strides during the past ten years," said the speaker. He pointed out the fact that the entire legal system of the "Sick Man of Europe" has been modernized; the Swiss civil code has been adopted by the Turks, the German commercial code has been instituted, and the Italian penal code has been established. In almost every way, Dean Fisher explained, Turkey is becoming modernized.

Stephen Panaretoff, lecturer on the Near East at the University, introduced the speaker. More than 150 students and faculty members were in the audience, as well as the Chinese Minister to the United States, Sao-Ke Alfred Sze.

ENGINEERS OBSERVE AIR FACTORY, MAY 12

Under Guidance of Prof. Johnson See Motors and Fokker Planes

An observation tour was made by a number of engineering students of the Berliner Aircraft factory in Alexandria on Saturday afternoon, May 12.

Under the guidance of Prof. Johnson, who organized the trip, and an official of the factory, the young engineers saw, in the metal, some of the machines they had sweated to see on paper, and learned of some interesting features of airplane manufacture.

Then they traveled by auto to the Hoover Flying Field, where the fine points of a motor of the type that powered the "Spirit of St. Louis," were investigated, some of the engineers even paying for a flight. To make a day of it Bolling Field was visited in order to observe the big Fokker planes there.

The experiences of the afternoon kindled an enthusiasm for flying in the students present. A Flying Club was proposed at an informal meeting. As the University has a fine airplane engine, and parts may be obtained from the War Department if sufficient interest is shown, all that is necessary to enable G. W. U. students to fly is a bit of hard work. Other universities have student flyers and so will G. W. U. if the students back it up. Anyone desiring to affiliate with this movement should communicate with Prof. Johnson.

CLASS OFFICERS WILL BE ELECTED NEXT SATURDAY

Ballot Boxes In Gym Open From 10 To 12:30 And 5 To 7:30

NOMINATIONS FEW, BUT VOTERS CAN ADD NAMES

Voting to be by Secret Ballot; Last Year's Rules Used; West in Charge

Elections for next year's class officers in the schools of the Arts and Sciences Department will be held Saturday, May 19, in the Gymnasium.

Many Names Rejected

Although about fifty nominations were made for the various offices, all except twenty-two were found invalid. Of the names rejected, some were found to have insufficient credits for the class named, a few are on probation and therefore ineligible, and others were not nominated by enough eligible voters.

Voters are allowed to write in the names of their candidates for any office, whether there is any nomination for that office or not. However, ballots cast for ineligible persons will not be counted.

The candidates whose nominations are valid, and whose names will appear on the official ballots, are as follows:

Columbian College, including Library Science and Fine Arts divisions. Senior class—For Vice-President, Margaret Rees; for Secretary, Julia Denning; for Treasurer, Julia Eckel; for Sergeant-at-arms, Bernadine Horn and Max Tandler.

"MODERN CHINA" TOPIC AT Y. W. C. A. MEETING

Sansong F. Wang, Graduate Student, Tells of Political Conditions in China

"Modern China" was the subject of an address by Sansong F. Wang at a noon meeting of the Y. W. C. A. last Friday.

The speaker touched on different phases of the Chinese question, placing special emphasis on the political situation in his country. The relations of the United States with China were dwelt upon; and following the speech, questions asked by the students were answered. Wang is a graduate student, doing research work at the Congressional Library. He will receive his doctor's degree in a short time. Wang is the son of a former Chinese ambassador to Mexico, and has studied at the University of Wisconsin.

Louise DuBose, president of the Y. W. C. A., was in charge of the meeting, and following the address announced that Sarah Reed, Caroline Hobbs, and Elizabeth Buntin had been selected as delegates to the student conference at Eaglesmere, Pa. This conference will be held from June 12 to 22, inclusive. Others, not delegates, may attend the conference by paying their own expenses. Further information may be secured from either the president or the secretary of the organization.

The orchestra, under the direction of Prof. Gropp, played at the opening of the meeting Friday.

THE FREE PRESS

In a paper read before the tenth annual meeting of the Deans and Advisers of Men, held at the University of Colorado, Dean Henry Grattan Doyle, chairman of the publications council of the University, and national vice president of Pi Delta Epsilon, took a stand which cannot but be echoed by every thoughtful student of college journalism.

Dean Doyle advocated student management of publications, and student responsibility for the items appearing therein. Anything short of that he held to be an abrogation of the American ideals of free speech and free press. Needless to say his views are those of editors at George Washington. The University has been singularly blessed in this respect, that the faculty has not attempted to regulate even matters of fact appearing in the school paper. Other institutions are not so fortunate, and must have even the most trivial notices signed by faculty advisers.

George Washington publications have been trusted to present all the news and views "fit to print." That trust has not been misplaced. Other colleges might do well to follow the same principle.

THIS CHAPEL QUESTION

Weekly the editorial column of The Hatchet, in its self-appointed function of critic of all phases of life at George Washington, views with alarm or points with pride to this, that or the other, but at this moment we wish simply to present evidence.

Within the past week three speakers have spoken at the school on subjects of international importance, and they have addressed large audiences. Two of these speakers, and they are men of national and international importance, have appeared under the auspices of classes of the University, and another at an assembly sponsored by a University organization. Fully capable of treating vital subjects with erudition, charm, and power, they met audiences who met their enthusiasm with equal enthusiasm and ardor. There was no question of scraping up hearers. The hearers came, and stayed beyond the appointed hour.

Surely there is some moral to be drawn from this undergraduate response to lectures and assemblies. Surely the school has shown its willingness to support gatherings of this kind and speakers of this caliber—but they cannot get them themselves. If the University provides meetings of this kind, meetings which can only add to the dignity and prestige of the University, the student body will support them.

ELECTION DAY

Election day for most of the University draws near, and brings with it the promise of another contest which will accurately show the student choice for class officers. Gone are the days of the stuffed ballot box, gone are the illegal ballots of solicitous party men. Cold statistics halt the dishonest on the threshold of the polls.

Cooperation between the voters and the election committee last year enabled the various schools to select candidates untainted by fraud. This year the same is true. Such an election system is a credit to any institution.

Of course over half of the nominations were thrown out because of irregularities in signing, or in the standing of the candidates, but The Hatchet is persuaded that these errors were unintentional, and that names of eligible candidates will be written in on the blank spaces of the ballot Saturday.

Follow the advice given by nationally prominent people, and "get out the vote." And may the best men and women win!

THE unusually large number of parties given and to be given this week seems to indicate a desire for a final celebration before the end—meaning exams. It is always around this time of year that the majority begins to envy the fortunate few who have prepared their work so well throughout the year that they never have to cram for exams.

The S. A. E. dance given at their house on Friday night was pronounced a complete success by all those attending. The guests included a great many members of other fraternities.

Three of the new officers, Betty Clark, Betty Zimmerman, and Helen Taylor are recent initiates and fill the offices left by the older members graduating in June.

Tentative plans for a tea to be given Freshmen next year in conjunction with the Sphinx Society were discussed at the meeting.

The second night will be spent in Greensboro, or Durham, N. C. Winston-Salem will be reached by the third day and the Piedmont District will be studied at this point.

The return trip will be made via Roanoke and Lexington and some time will be spent at Natural Bridge, one of the many scenic wonders of the State of Virginia. From there the party will return to Washington by way of New Market and Luray, Virginia.

The entire journey will be made by bus and the expenses will be approximately $32.00. All students interested in joining the party should get in touch with Dr. Resser at once. Dr. Resser states that this tour will be especially interesting in view of the fact that the Coastal, Piedmont, Blue Ridge and Great Valley regions with their rock formations can be studied and analyzed.

HONOR SYSTEM IS DROPPED BY YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (IP).—Four reasons have been given by the Yale College Student Council why they will not attempt any longer to enforce the Yale honor system. The reasons are:

1. Under present conditions public opinion is not sufficiently active.
2. No students are willing to report violations.
3. Very few consider it necessary openly to discourage offenses and as a consequence—
4. The occasional reports of cribbing sent in by a member of the faculty based on a comparison of test papers brings before the Council men who are not deserving of expulsion or suspension.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

Vol. 23, No. 30—May 11, 1927

The Classical Association of the Atlantic States held its twenty-first annual meeting in Corcoran Hall, May 6 and 7. Professor Kayser was chairman of the Local Committee of Arrangements. This meeting was held under the auspices of the Washington and Baltimore Classical Clubs. President Lewis welcomed the visitors at the first session in behalf of the University.

"Not Yet, Fleurette," the Troubadour's effective offering for the Phi Gamma Delta Dramatic Cup, opened its three-day run at the University Gymnasium Tuesday night. The musical comedy, with book by Larry Parker, music by Elmer Brown, and with Billie Wright and Carr Ferguson in the leading roles, was enthusiastically received by a crowded house. The dancing, chorus and songs were excellent.

RICHARDSON READS PAPER TO PHILOSOPHICAL GROUP

Discussion of Einstein's Theory Read at Meeting

That a new theory in the field of science is attracting considerable attention was brought out by Dr. Edward E. Richardson in a recent paper read before the Society for Philosophical Inquiry of Washington.

In considering the field of relatively, Dr. Richardson states that it pertains primarily to the field of physics.

The basic ideas involved in the theory are: First, that of relativity; second, that phenomena that have to do with gravity and inertia on the one hand, and electricity and magnetism on the other, can be correlated. In summing up the theory, Dr. Richardson mentioned some startling facts which are not generally known. Einstein's theory is a supplemental and not a strikingly new theory.

Also, Einstein's relativity will make no difference in any philosophical position, because it touches only the surface of any of these positions.

Faculty-Pyramid Game To Precede Track Meet On May 19

FRAT RELAYS FEATURE

Competition to Take Place in Eastern High Stadium; Starts About 1.30 P. M.

After being postponed twice for bad weather, the Interclass Track Meet has now been scheduled for next Saturday, May 19. Eastern High Stadium, as formerly announced, will be the scene of activities.

Another attraction has been added to the features of the day's program, with the announcement that the annual Pyramid-Faculty base ball game will be played just before the meet begins. The game will get under way at 12.30 with the meet slated to start about an hour later. The old feud between faculty and students has always brought out a large crowd in the past, and the dual attraction to be presented Saturday is expected to draw out a goodly throng.

As formerly announced, the features of the meet will be the running of the Inter-Fraternity and Inter-Sorority relays. Practically every organization in the school has had a team training for this event in an effort to win the cup. As in previous years, the competition will be run in trial heats, with the best in each heat running in the final.

The list of events and rules for contestants appeared in an earlier edition of The Hatchet. Entry blanks may be obtained at the Gym, Recorder's Office of Columbian College, or from the Secretary of the Law School.

Acacia And Phi Sigma Kappa Take Undisputed Lead In Race

PHI SIGMA KAPPA HUMBLIES SIGMA CHI IN 11 TO 1 SCRAP

Glover Holds Opponents to Four Hits; Falk Hits Triple as Pinch Hitter

The fraternity baseball nines continued to pound the ball last Sunday to amass a total of 103 runs. All the scheduled games were played on the Monument lots and were witnessed by good crowds of baseball fans and loyal fraternity adherents.

In Alpha League, Acacia retained its league leadership by defeating Sigma Phi Epsilon in a rather loose game, which ended with a 21 to 11 score. Spangler and Clapper did the hurting for the victors. In addition to helping with the pitching burden, Clapper also poled out a four-bagger.

Kappa Sigma split even in their day's efforts. Delta Tau Delta fell victim to a heavy hitting spree and were snowed under by a 17 to 2 count, while in their game with Theta Delta Chi the tables were turned and, their ace, Wheaton, was knocked out of the box in the first inning, while Dick Battle held their bats in silence during all stages of the game.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fell victim to Master Time, when, while leading Theta Delta Chi by a 5 to 0 score, they were forced to give up their playing field to another nine and in this way lost the advantage of a lead which appeared to be taking them to a win.

In Beta League, Phi Sigma Kappa went into the undisputed lead of their league by snowing the highly touted Sigma Chi nine under with an 11 to 1 count. Even though suffering from a sore arm, Glover, Phi Sig star flinger, held the hard hitting foe to four hits while his team mates were making good use of their bats to fatten their batting averages at the expense of Russell and Anderson of the opposing hurling staff. Falk, who batted for Gray, Phi Sigma Kappa center fielder, in the last inning with two men out drove out a three-base hit to score a runner.

Sigma Nu took full possession of the cellar position when they bowed before the fast work and timely bats of Kappa Alpha. Furgeson of Kappa Alpha, gave the Sigma Nu nine six runs while Althey allowed his opponents a grand total of 13.

In addition to the few remaining scheduled games all postponed games must be played off on or before next Sunday, otherwise the games will remain unplayed.

PHARMACY UPPERCLASS TEAM TAKES FROSH, 9-5

Pharmacy Upperclassmen downed the Pharmacy Frosh by the score of 9 to 5. Carey wielded a mighty bat for the victors, getting a home run, a triple, and two doubles, at four times at bat.

The game was umpired by Professor Briggs, of the School of Pharmacy, and M. Kolodin.

Other departments of the University wishing to be scheduled for a game may get in touch with Ben Bass.

COLONIAL NINE SWAMPS AMERICAN UNIV., 20 TO 2

George Washington University mitt-men terminated their successful two-game season with an impressive 20 to 2 victory over American University, Tuesday, May 8.

The Colonial sluggers could not be stayed, and two American University pitchers were driven from the box before a merciful downpour ended the massacre in the sixth inning.

Lefty Williams, lanky Colonial pitcher, held the opposing batters at his mercy, while his support was but little short of perfect. Smith, Clapper, and Davis added spice to the game by pounding the ball into the Governmental swimming pool, while Lopeman did his part by stealing home from first base.

COLONIALS LOSE TO C. U. RUNNERS

Cardinals Take Track Meet On Last Saturday, 69 to 48

FAIRMAN WINS THE MILE

G. W. Athlete's Brilliant Finish of Mile Event High Spot of Meet

Bowing to the superior all-around team work of Catholic University, the Colonials again fell before their track opponents last Saturday to the tune of 69-48.

A decided improvement, however, was noted in the work of the losers, as the 48 points accumulated indicate in comparison to the Maryland meet a week ago, in which only 28 points were scored.

Fairman Scores

Outstanding among the performers of the meet was Dick Fairman, of G. W., who won the mile-run over Howell of C. U. in a brilliant finish. Although far behind at the start of the last lap, Fairman "opened up" and fairly flew in ahead of his opponent. Fairman also scored a third for his team in the 880-yard run.

Winners of events were more numerous in the Colonial ranks Saturday than in the previous meet. In all, six first places were scored and in one event, the discus throw, G. W. took all three places, with Hartzog winning, closely followed by Suter and Walker. Besides Fairman's and Hartzog's winning performances, Wineland won the shot put for the Colonials, while Walker scored a first in the javelin throw.

Pomeroy-Martin Tie

In the two-mile run, Pomeroy and Martin tied for first place, giving G. W. the first two places. Elliott, of G. W., also tied with Juten, of C. U., in the pole vault, both clearing the bar at 10 feet.

The summaries follow:

220-yard low hurdles: Won by Gerth (C. U.); second, Kieferle (G. W.); third, Towell (C. U.). Time: 28.25 seconds. 100-yard dash: Won by Carney (C. U.); second, Healey (C. U.); third, Champa (C. U.). COLONIAL RIFLE TEAM CAPTURES OUTDOOR TITLE

Shoves Navy Into Second Place By Fifteen-Point Margin

LANE ELECTED NEXT YEAR'S TEAM CAPTAIN

Parsons Appointed Manager; Match With West Point to be Last of Season

The G. W. Riflemen avenged their defeat of two weeks ago at the hands of the Naval Academy when last Saturday they fought their way to the National Outdoor Championship shoving Navy into second place by a fifteen-point margin.

The Colonials made a flying start in the standing position and, fighting a stiff breeze, jumped into the lead. Naval Academy, however, shooting excellent scores in the rapid fire stages managed to cut down the lead but were unable to overcome it. At six hundred yards the tricky wind asserted itself, but the Stokesmen, due to their excellent coaching, increased their margin and finished victoriously.

The results of this match bring to George Washington an even more coveted trophy than the winning of the National Indoor Championship.

Lane New Captain

"Bill" Lane led the team to victory firing two points better than the next G. W. men. The scores were closely grouped, a margin of only three points separating the high from the low man.

After the match, as has been the custom in previous years, the captain for next year was elected and the manager was appointed. Lane, who performed so well in the match just fired and who has been a member of the team for two years will replace Frank Parsons as the team's captain. Harry Parsons, who has been unusually successful in his first year and has acted as alternate in the two championship matches will succeed Campbell as team manager.

Next Saturday the team will journey to West Point for the last match of the season.

Scores in the Intercollegiate Match at Naval Academy are:

George Washington:
Lane	231

Parsons, F.	229

Finds Right Tobacco for the Tropics

October 6, 1926

Larus & Bro. Co.
Richmond, Va., U. S. A.

Gentlemen: Most all well-known tobaccos smoke well in a cold or temperate climate, but very few in a tropical climate. They are mostly too heavy, don't seem to be blended right—at least that is my opinion gained from practical experience.

However, Edgeworth is the same in any climate. Again that is my opinion gained by practical experience.

I cannot get the same pleasure out of any brand of tobacco that I can out of Edgeworth, and I have tried many—and paid fancy prices, too. It costs real money to smoke imported tobaccos here; the import duty is very high. Anyway, we cannot have everything we would like in these countries, so we hold on to all the little pleasures possible. Now you know why I smoke Edgeworth.

Yours respectfully,

Charles Laughlin, of the G. W. Law School, was elected unanimously last Friday evening, May 11, as president of the Columbian Debating Society for the first semester of the school year 1928-29. Laughlin has been secretary of the society for three terms.

Lionel C. Stukes and James G. Wingo were elected also unanimously as vice-president and secretary respectively. Captain W. S. Rumbaugh was elected treasurer; Karl Frisbie, critic; and Marie C. Nold, representative to the Debating Council. All of these newly elected officers have been active members of the society during the year.

The last debate of the year was held after the election. J. F. Jackson and L. C. Stukes spoke in favor of the McNary-Haugen bill, while Charles Laughlin and Karl Frisbie argued against it. After a heated debate the house voted in favor of the bill.

President Edward C. Gallagher reviewed the activities of the society this year in his farewell address. He said that this year has been one of Columbia's most successful years.

A vote of thanks was extended to Captain Rumbaugh for offering a cup to the winner of the Columbian tennis tournament, which is still going on.

Cues, Curtain-Calls and Clinches

By STAGE DOOR JOHNNY

EARLE

"The Fifty-Fifty Girl" is the title of Bebe Daniels' new Paramount picture, which is this week's feature at the Earle Theater. The stage offering is a new Stanley Co. of America presentation, "Venetian Nights," which features Jack Pepper as master of ceremonies and a number of Broadway stars, including Berlinoff and Eulalie, the Three Whirlwinds, Georges Dufranne, Kitty McLaughlin, Edward Albano, Grace Yeager and the Serova Dancers. The Earle Stage Band supplies the music for the stage offering.

In "The Fifty-Fifty Girl" Miss Daniels has the role of a stubborn girl, who maintains that women are superior to men in every situation. A young man, who seriously disagrees with her, allows her to test her theories on him, and in the dark passages of an old gold mine, pursued by a horde of yelling laborers, she finally meets her Waterloo and concedes his mastery. The story is laid chiefly in and about an old gold mine with a historic background, while several sequences are taken on a railroad train. In the supporting cast are seen James Hall, William Austin and others.

PALACE

Gilda Gray, in "The Devil Dancer," is the screen attraction at Loew's Palace this week.

Clive Brook has the leading male role and others in the cast are Anna May Wong and Michael Vavitch.

The star enters the picture as the successor to a sacred dancer killed by her lover by being buried alive for the sin of unfaithfulness. The superstitious natives look with awe at this white woman among them, the orphan of a murdered missionary, left at the temple many years before.

The stage presentation is entitled "Kat Kabaret" and has a cast including Kerenoff and Maree, the Pat.

The program, which is under the charge of Dean Doyle, is to start at 8 o'clock and should prove highly interesting.

Prominent members of the University faculty and of college circles will speak to the assembled high school and prospective G. W. students. The well-known cast of "Sharps and Frats" will appear on the evening's program in several stunts and skits. Alpha Delta Theta will present their play, which took first prize in the University Vodvil. Some lusty songs and crooning melodies by the Men's Glee Club will further enhance the enjoyment of the evening.

PHYSICISTS TO HEAR STAIR ON REFLECTION

Reflection of light from various metallic surfaces is the topic on which Ralph Stair will address the Physics Colloquium tomorrow evening, May 17, at 8 o'clock, in Building 4, Room 14.

RICHARDSON AT REUNION

Dr. Charles W. Richardson, President, presided over the annual reunion and dinner of Fossils, Inc., held in New York City, April 28. Fossils, Inc. is an organization composed entirely of men who, prior to 1890, were as boys in their teens editors of amateur newspapers or magazines in the United States.

erson Twins, Roy Walman, Bert Nagel and "Omar," the Hearst Brothers, the Albertina Rasch Girls, and featuring Wesley Eddy and his Palace Syncopators.

METROPOLITAN

"Tenderloin," the underworld talking drama, made via the Vitaphone method, in which dialogue is carried on by characters as the picture is shown on the screen, is the attraction this week at Crandall's Metropolitan. Dolores Costello, the featured player, is said to have a role in which she runs the gamut of human emotions. The story concerns a coterie of high-class crooks. They are not pickers or cheap-skates in the world of gangdom. They go after big stakes with the knowledge that if they are apprehended they will get long prison terms. Innocently and with open eyes, the heroine falls into the clutches of this gang through a seemingly honest boy who is a master workman in safe blowing.

COLUMBIA

Intimate glimpses of life behind the scenes are blended into a vivid and gripping drama in Lon Chaney's new picture, "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," which continues for a second week at Loew's Columbia.

The new Herbert Brenon production is based on the stage play in which Lionel Barrymore starred. Chaney as Tito the clown, making his great sacrifice for the happiness of the woman he loves, has a role which runs the gamut of human emotions.

Simonetta, played by Loretta Young, is found as a foundling waif and adopted by Tito and Simon, two wandering players.

COLLEGE MARRIAGES GOOD

LINCOLN, Nebr. (IP).—"The majority of college marriages are a good thing," said Judge Ben B. Lindsey, over the breakfast table to a Nebraska Daily reporter here recently.

"I do not advocate college marriages just because 'companionate marriage would make it possible,' he continued. 'Every case is different, but there are many cases where it is desirable. If the couple are earnest and sincere, and wish to be married, and their parents are willing that they should, then it will do much to improve the morality of our colleges and would help to do away with many abnormal and unhealthy cases.'
